"Like sands through the hourglass, so are the days of our lives."

You know what I mean. Time slips away and before you know it that youthful glow is gone, replaced with wrinkles, crows feet, spots and scars.

My personal struggle has just begun. With typically dry skin and a sensitivity to detergents I find it impossible to stay in hotels and it's always a very expensive winter at the beauty counter. Rashes, dry patches and the onset of fine lines have had me poking around to find the solution to all of my problems, present and future.

Having given Intraceuticals Rejuvenate Moisture Binding Cream (Suggested Retail: $89.00) a test run after meeting with Michelle Peck (check out this great piece on her in Interview) for a product introduction I felt like there might be some hope for my face surviving this winter.

The cream is light yet nutrient dense and it delivers a healthy dose of antioxidants, squalane and jojoba. I have to be honest, I indulge in dark chocolate and red wine often. Though they may also contain antioxidants they aren't as kind to the skin. What I really love about the cream is that it isn't sticky. It soaks into the skin leaving you looking naturally moisturized. I can't say the same about my winter creams of past.

How Does it Work?

- * Vitamin A, green tea and macadamia oil are powerful antioxidants to support healthy cell growth and help reduce free radical activity
- * Aloe Vera, geranium and jojoba oil help to soothe, calm, and condition the skin
- * Wheat germ helps to restructure the skin and reinforce the skin's barrier
- * Used in combination with Intraceuticals Rejuvenate Hydration Gel you'll maximize and prolong the benefits of the Intraceuticals Rejuvenation Infusion Treatment

Just when things were looking up, they got even better. Two weeks into my new relationship with Intraceuticals Rejuvenate Moisture Binding Cream I met with Michelle Peck again, this time to receive an Intraceuticals Infusion Treatment. Until I got the full scoop from Michelle on who hearts this 'facial' I had no clue that this is the treatment of the stars (and people determined to look like them). Ehem.

This is the only treatment to use therapeutic-grade oxygen to help deliver targeted active serums and incredible de-aging benefits to skin's structural layers. Brighter, fresher, and visibly firmer, lifted and more flawless, the results are seen and felt in just one treatment and last far longer.

I walked unwound and relaxed to look at myself in the mirror. The cooling sensation felt throughout the treatment in tandem with Michelle's approachable and sincere nature sent me off to dinner that night with an inner glow shining through noticeably improved skin.

Yes, that's right. I went to dinner straight after getting a facial, and I looked better than ever!

How Does It Work?

These elements achieve instant and dramatic results:

- * Therapeutic-grade oxygen under pressure aids the delivery of age and other defying actives to deeper layers of the skin while cooling and calming it to prevent irritation, inflammation or redness.
- * Unique Rejuvenate Serum contains a unique low-molecular weight Hyaluronic Acid and a powerful vitamin and antioxidant combination. The Hyaluronic Acid helps deliver the other active ingredients more effectively and instantly hydrates the skin.
- * The result is firmness, less visible fine lines and wrinkles and improved facial contours as well as an overall radiance.
- * Nourishing antioxidant blend fights free radical aging
- * See younger firmer, undeniably lifted skin in just one treatment

INSIDE SCOOP: This treatment is the go-to before an important event, special appearance or any other big day. From e-profile photos to reunions to red carpets, Intraceuticals Infusion treatments deliver amazing ROI – radiance on investment.
