

The 'Hollywood Secret' facial at Medico

Medico Clinic in the gorgeous Revive salon in Milltown has recently brought in the 'Hollywood Secret' facial, officially known as the Intraceuticals Infusion facial. This is a non-invasive treatment, intended as a high-performing alternative to facial injections.

But does it work?

I tried one of the treatments recently at Revive in Milltown, and although it is recommended that you have six treatments to really see results, I did notice a distinctive plumping of my skin after just one.

I am lucky enough not to have any wrinkles yet, just a few fine lines on my forehead, but what this did for me was give my skin intense hydration, a youthful glow and it improved the all over texture (pores were minimised and my skin looked smoother)...

The facial hinges on the use of Intraceuticals serums and Hyaluronic Acid, an ingredient naturally found in your skin that diminishes with ages.

The therapist did one side of my face first and then handed me a mirror to see the difference it made to my skin, and it definitely looked plumper! This treatment is ideal for those looking to improve their skin without having to go for injectibles.

This treatment is available exclusively at the Revive Urban Day Spa in Milltown. The cost of a single Intraceuticals Infusion facial is €150, whereas a course of four treatments costs €450 and a course of six treatments costs €800. The six treatment course also includes €300 worth of take-home products to maximise the results of the treatments.
